Arts, Culture & Innovation
Arts, Culture & Innovation

St. Louis is located in a nationally, historically, and culturally significant location, rooted geographically and temporally at the confluence of America’s greatest rivers. From this location, St. Louis has maintained a pivotal role in much of America’s history and culture since its settlement, making countless contributions to American music, dance, performance, art, history, design, architecture, building, landscape, literary arts, graphic design, crafts, and innovative new industries.

The City has developed a nationally significant collection of arts, cultural and historical sites and venues, a growing local creative innovation industry, quality artistic press, well acclaimed fine dining, and blossoming creative arts districts. A study commissioned by Americans for the Arts and the St. Louis Regional Arts Commission indicates that, in 2007, arts and culture was a $561 million industry, supporting 8,809 full time employees within the region. Furthermore, this arts and culture sector is growing, showing a 25% increase in economic activity and employment in the five years since 2002. In addition, St. Louis has three successful professional sports teams that attract millions of visitors to the City, and another $509 million in revenue (2010). Arts and Culture is one of the St. Louis region’s largest, most attractive and economically successful industries, and the City of St. Louis serves as the center of this regional asset.

EXISTING ASSETS

The City of St. Louis has a great concentration of arts and cultural facilities and venues that are well utilized through successful events, which contribute significant vitality to the City and its economy. There are numerous “arts, culture and entertainment districts” including Downtown, which contains the Jefferson National Expansion Memorial (Arch Grounds), Old Courthouse, Old Cathedral and Gateway Mall, Peabody Auditorium, the Cardinals’ Busch Stadium, Scottrade Center, America’s Center, Peabody Opera House, Laclede’s Landing, and Citygarden. There is also a strong concentration of cultural institutions in Grand Center, with Powell Hall, The Contemporary Art Museum, the Pulitzer Foundation for the Arts, the Sheldon Concert Hall, the Black Repertory Theater, and the Fox Theater. Forest Park contains five exceptional cultural facilities: the St. Louis Art Museum, the Missouri History Museum, the Municipal Theatre Association of St. Louis (Muny), the St. Louis Zoo, and the St. Louis Science Center. The City is also home to the world renowned Missouri Botanical Garden. These institutions have ensured that St. Louis has the most museums and libraries per capita than any large American city according to stlworldclasscity.com.

In addition, the City has numerous emerging and established neighborhood arts and culture corridors, including the Grove, Cherokee Street, South Grand, Dr. Martin Luther King Boulevard, 14th Street in Old North, the Central West End, the Delmar Loop, and Washington Avenue. There are also emerging clusters of creative and innovative industries in the CORTEX area, Downtown, the Locust Business District, Mid-town, the Central West End, and surrounding the Delmar Loop. Biosciences, design, information technology, and other industries are thriving in these areas because of investments and leadership from universities, venture capitalists, and City agencies. The City has also established numerous progressive policies to encourage the growth of arts, culture, and innovation, including the Metropolitan Zoological Park and Museum District (ZMD), a special tax for cultural institutions, and the 1% for the Arts Ordinance (City Ordinance 68793). In addition, the City has a strong regional collaboration for the arts, organized by the Regional Arts Commission, and the progressive Metro Arts in Transit public art partnership.
GOAL

Arts, culture and design, and the creative and innovation industries, constitute a major sector of the City’s economy, and have the ability to bolster economic and community development strategies that give the City a competitive edge. Development in these sectors provides new jobs, contributes to the development of a skilled workforce, attracts new residents, increases real estate values, generates tax revenues, and stimulates tourism and consumer purchases. The City regularly draws local, regional, and national visitors for key civic, arts, cultural, and sports events facilitated by the Convention & Visitors Commission and the City Special Events Office. These events create tremendous vitality and excitement throughout the City. Arts and culture are also instrumental in fostering a sense of community and place. “The sign of a great state or a great city is the strength of its cultural life.”
- J. Clayton Hering
Objective B: Increase Affordable and Equitable Access to a Diversity of Arts and Culture

St. Louis has a nationally acclaimed and innovative funding system in place through the Zoo Museum District. This special tax district allows the major cultural institutions of the St. Louis Zoo, Art Museum, Science Center, Missouri Botanical Garden, and Missouri History Museum to provide the general public with free access to parts of their facilities and/or exhibits. These cultural assets are, in general, accessible to people from across the City because of their central location near MetroLink stops and interstates. However, more transit connections need to be provided to facilitate and ensure equitable access. In addition, many of the City’s neighborhoods have developed small arts and cultural community groups, often with a national reputation, like the City Museum. However, some neighborhoods lack the necessary supplies, facilities, and funds to provide residents with affordable arts and cultural programs. By providing free public access to all major arts and cultural institutions, and facilitating the accessibility and growth of neighborhood arts groups throughout the City, citizens of all racial, age, and socio-economic groups can have immediate and daily access to the arts expertise of others, and the opportunity to create art of their own.

Objective C: Develop Multi-Use, Transit Accessible Arts and Cultural Districts

The City of St. Louis has a wealth of established and developing arts, cultural, and entertainment districts where high densities of cultural enterprises, active venues, creative workers, and visitors create an exciting and vibrant atmosphere. The majority of these districts, such as Grand Center and Mid-Town, Cherokee Street, The Grove, Locust Business District, and Washington Avenue, continue to grow, as cultural venues and creative arts entrepreneurs relocate to these areas. In many cases, this growth has been successfully choreographed by the City, developers, business associations, and community improvement districts to emphasize public safety, rehabilitation of historic buildings, and selection of tenants that contribute to district character. Prioritizing developing arts and cultural areas for additional improvements and support, and encouraging creative districts to develop plans to ensure that they are environmentally sustainable, accessible, and affordable to a diverse set of artists and patrons, can nourish and bolster efforts.

As digital technology transforms the nation’s commerce, culture and community, the City of St. Louis continues to develop its emerging innovative industries in the CORTEX area, Downtown, the Locust Business District, Mid-town, the Central West End, and the Delmar Loop areas. While the reasons behind the location of innovative enterprises are complex, the City has many attributes that make it an ideal location in the region, including a great urban environment well served by mass transit, a strong creative class workforce, an outstanding collection of historic buildings well-suited to renovation for creative enterprises, a nationally and internationally significant collection of educational and research institutions and facilities with highly educated talent, and an emerging venture capital market and funding support for start-ups. The City has a great opportunity to facilitate and concentrate these creative and innovative industries into Smart Learning Hubs, well served by high-speed fiber-optic cable technology and transit. By building networks of confidence among public, private, community, and civic leaders, the City can develop a national and international support system for research and creativity, and the conditions for continuous learning and innovation.

Objective E: Encourage Public Art and Design that Builds Vibrancy and Identity

St. Louis has a strong public arts program that has significantly improved the appearance of infrastructure and public space in many places throughout the City. For instance, the Gateway Foundation has for years located public art throughout the City, and recently funded, developed, and now maintains the internationally acclaimed Citygarden. In 2010, the City passed an ordinance that sets aside 1% of all built projects that receive City funds into a Public Arts Trust Fund to be administered by the Regional Arts Commission. This ensures that public art and design of the highest quality has a place in public and private developments for years to come. The ordinance also requires that 50% of the funds generated by a project be used within the project, and 25% in the surrounding neighborhood at large. Similarly, the Metro Arts in Transit partnership funds high quality public art in and around the City’s transit infrastructure. Encouraging additional, innovative, public art that enhances City spaces, develops a cohesive visual identity for the City, engages communities in expressing their historic, cultural and arts traditions, and beautifies neighborhood spaces can further add to the City’s arts stature.

STRATEGY 1

Use distinctive public art, architecture, landscape, and streetscape to build City and neighborhood identity

Develop distinct public art along prominent streets and in public spaces in each of the City’s neighborhoods. Take residents’ preferences into account and use local artists where possible to build neighborhood pride as well as identity. In this manner the City’s districts and neighborhoods can reinforce their uniqueness, image, and branding, and attract additional residents and visitors. Enforce anti-vandalism laws to protect public and private property and make it widely understood where public art is permitted.

Collect information about neighborhood art installations and feature them in a single location on the web, in order to publicize the diversity and richness of arts in the City to a wide audience.

– Michelle Obama
Objective G: Build Arts, Design and Cultural Leadership, Volunteerism, Stewardship, and Funding

Much of the activity that occurs in and around the arts in St. Louis is coordinated, staffed, and sponsored through creative arrangements. Many of the City’s great cultural institutions are funded primarily through private donors and tax revenue from the Zoo Museum District (ZMD). These institutions and smaller organizations rely heavily on volunteer support and locally-developed leadership that would benefit by additional support. For instance, the Regional Arts Commission (RAC) has developed the Community Arts Training (CAT) Institute to train socially-conscious arts practitioners, the Arts Commandos program to provide community groups with arts volunteers, and multiple regional conferences for the arts. These programs help arts organizations throughout the City increase their coordination, and develop youth and young professionals into future leaders in the arts.

Provide leadership training in community oriented arts

Support and enhance the capacity of the RAC and other cultural and educational institutions to provide capital, networking opportunities, and support to local artists. Provide skills and exposure to those who are interested in pursuing careers in the arts and cultural business and nonprofit management.
